Fall Prevention In The Workplace

Falls are the second leading cause of death each year (after traffic accidents) and the source of thousands of injuries and permanent disabilities.

About 85 percent of all falls that occur on the job result in lost work time. This program provides the information employees need to work safely "off the ground."

Topics include: hazards and hazardous environments, a fall protection plan, proper housekeeping, safety precautions, and protective equipment.

A comprehensive leader's guide and reproducible scheduling forms, attendance forms, employee quiz, and training certificate accompany the program.

The Hazards Of Substance Abuse (2nd Edition)

The Safety On The Job Series

This well produced video shows how important it is not to drink or take drugs on the job. While no one will quibble with that assertion, awareness just isn't enough.

The tape does recommend counseling at the end. It mentions prescription and over the counter drugs – something other programs don't – and warns about how they impair.

I've had an excellent response from this video. I use it with our EAP programs. The thing I like best is its honesty - it doesn't try to overdramatize or overwhelm you with statistics. It deals with all aspects of substance awareness on the job, from cold remedies to illegal drugs. It fits right into the workplace, it's appropriate for everyone from those on the line to supervisors and managers...an excellent film.

Road Rage And Aggressive Driving

A View From The Driver's Seat

„Road rage“ is deliberate, violent behaviour by a driver in response to a real or imagined traffic grievance. Drivers may use their vehicles as weapons, or even get out of their cars to accost or attack another driver. Road rage occurs when something “snaps” in a driver who might usually drive carefully and obey all traffic laws. Incidents caused by road rage can and do result in physical assault, damage to or destruction of personal and public property. Similar to the road rage driver is the “aggressive” driver. An aggressive driver may run red lights, tailgate, weave in and out of traffic and ignore traffic laws as their normal pattern of driving. An aggressive driver may trigger road rage in another driver or may develop road rage themselves.

This timely program looks at road rage and aggressive driving from the driver's perspective. Viewers learn what to do if they are the object of an enraged driver and how to avoid becoming enraged themselves.

Unintentional actions such as driving too slowly, blocking the passing lane, cutting off another driver, or tailgating, can all lead to road rage. Knowing what to do if confronted by a person who is enraged can mean the difference between life and death.

What Do You Know About Safety?

Studies show that the more employees know about why safety is important, and the logic behind the safety programs and procedures they are asked to follow, the more committed they become to working safely.

This program shows employees how safety procedures and regulations protect them. It is also an excellent refresher for front line supervisors, who are held legally liable for violations of safety procedures.

The program covers: the importance of safety consciousness; effective communication for safety; signs, labels and tags; lock-out/tag-out; chemical safety; fires, extinguishers and evacuation; slips, trips and falls; lifting and back safety; and more.

When You Least Expect It

As employees start to get comfortable with their jobs, many times they begin to neglect good safety practices. They seem to feel that they have been doing the job for such a long time ... and know it so well ... that nothing could possibly go wrong.

This program points out to employees that no matter how much you know about your job, things can go wrong if you don't follow good safety practices .. and that it usually happens “when you least expect it.”

Topics covered include: unsafe conditions; signs, labels and tags; working with electricity; ladders; lifting and back safety; hazardous chemicals and gases; and more.

“Superb and excellent! This is probably the best safety video I have ever seen.” Marilyn Forbes, Manager of Human Resources, Kolmar of Canada.
