A C A: Breaking The Continuum

Most of us know that 1 out of every 4 alcoholics grew up in a home where there was addiction present. But it's amazing how many adult children of alcoholics, ACA's, whether or not they're alcoholics, are not fully aware of the scars they bear because they grew up in an addictive environment.

Many sincerely believe they got by without damage. Often, however, the ACA suddenly begins to run into obstacles to their progress, and the fact that they are in recovery themselves isn't enough to explain the problems they're having. The causes of these difficulties are explored in this tape.

To Find Our Way & First Steps

Two programs on one video present graphic dramatizations that portray the effects of domestic violence on a Native American family. The stress building and explosive battering portions of the cycle of violence are realistically played by Lakota Sioux People.

To Find Our Way

Bill's repeated episodes of alcoholism and wife battering leave intense physical and emotional scars on the family.

First Steps

Now out of jail, Bill must now take his first steps toward a life without violence. He discusses the ways of his ancestors and encourages indigenous families to return to the values and mutual respect that were once prominent in their society.

"... very well put together ... geared to a Native audience. It's very believable." Helen Craftchick, Outreach Prevention Worker, Mississauga Family Resource Centre, Blind River, Ontario.
